

IAN-JOEY AMAROOK

Haul Truck Trainer

MEADOWBANK, AGNICO EAGLE

Ian-Joey is currently a haul truck trainer at Agnico Eagle's Meadowbank mine. He initially joined Meadowbank's maintenance team as a helper and his tasks included cleaning the equipment for the mechanics.

Shortly after beginning at Agnico Eagle, Ian-Joey began taking part in the haul truck program, a 336-hour training program intended to develop entry-level workers into working with heavy equipment. He successfully completed the program in July 2013 and now works for the training department as a haul truck trainer.

Ian-Joey credits Agnico Eagle for the positive yet dramatic changes in his life and feels as though it is a good company with opportunities for people to advance as a reward for hard work and effort. Having grown up in Baker Lake, Ian-Joey never imagined he would operate haul trucks, let alone supervise or train new operators for such heavy equipment.

JOB GOALS

- Perform good practices in planning, delivering, documenting, and tracking required training and evaluations
- Bring expertise advice to training content development
- Deliver training program related to health and safety, equipment operation, and processes
- Follow up on employee performance
- Participate in community relations activities such as site visits and career fairs

SKILLS THAT PLAY A PART

- Good understanding and knowledge of operations on light and heavy equipment
- Ability to present information clearly
- Interpersonal skills and ability to work in a team
- Strong ability to communicate in English (oral and written)

EDUCATION AND TRAINING NEEDED

- High school diploma
- Heavy equipment operator certification (or equivalent) is an asset